

Lord Stjepan

Mynistra has indeed found this letter to me well, but not the boy sent to deliver it I must inform. This winter has been hard with wolves plaguing us day and night. Their howls encircle our castle and we keep the peasantry within our walls. It appeared they had left until this letter arrived. It may be a while yet before we are free of them.

My knowledge of the Amethyst League? It is scant and based on common street hearsay.

(what follows is a list of military strength positioning of the requested Lords with mention they all once supported the Nemeck line and if swayed once, could most easily be swayed again, the Lords fought against the Katra until such a time that it was inevitable to switch allegiance and pay tax)
